

The book was found

From Vines To Wines, 5th Edition: The Complete Guide To Growing Grapes And Making Your Own Wine

Synopsis

From planting vines to savoring the finished product, Jeff Cox covers every aspect of growing flawless grapes and making extraordinary wine. Fully illustrated instructions show you how to choose and prepare a vineyard site; build trellising systems; select, plant, prune, and harvest the right grapes for your climate; press, ferment, and bottle wine; and judge wine for clarity, color, aroma, and taste. With information on making sparkling wines, ice wines, port-style wines, and more, this comprehensive guide is an essential resource for every winemaker.Â

Book Information

Paperback: 264 pages

Publisher: Storey Publishing, LLC; 5 edition (March 10, 2015)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1612124380

ISBN-13: 978-1612124384

Product Dimensions: 5.9 x 0.7 x 8.9 inches

Shipping Weight: 10.4 ounces (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.7 out of 5 starsÂ Â See all reviewsÂ (158 customer reviews)

Best Sellers Rank: #47,155 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #9 inÂ Books > Crafts, Hobbies & Home > Gardening & Landscape Design > Fruit #40 inÂ Books > Cookbooks, Food & Wine > Beverages & Wine > Wine & Spirits > Wine #72 inÂ Books > Cookbooks, Food & Wine > Beverages & Wine > Homebrewing, Distilling & Wine Making

Customer Reviews

The new revision is an excellent book for anyone putting in a new vineyard, or thinking about winemaking. The two most certainly go hand in hand, however, if you are just interested in improving your knowledge of growing grapes, then it provides much very usefull information. On the other hand, if you are a new or aspiring winemaker, the section on making wine is filled with up to date, smart information, and can also be a stand alone reference to winemaking. By combining the two related fields, grape growing (specifically for winegrapes), and winemaking the winemaker will better understand what he should be looking for in winegrapes for his resulting wine. Conversely, the grape grower will have an understanding of how to grow his grapes to achieve the best possible product for the winemaker. If you are a grower of French Hybrid grapes, or the newer selection of American crosses from Elmer Swenson, David MacGregor, the University of Minnesota, New York Experiment Station named and numbered varieties, et al, then you do NOT want to pass up this book. A.J. Winkler's book "General Viticulture" is a bit outdated and a good revision would help... this one is right on the money.

As an avid home winemaker, I was thrilled to find this book. It doesn't get bogged down in long technical descriptions and pages of history. Instead, with sections like "Problems in the South", it gets right into what will and will not work for your home winemaking efforts. The intro has a glossary of terms and a basic overview of winemaking which is very helpful for those new to the fun. Tables list which kinds of grapes work best for different regions, so those who are planting vines have a best-case scenario laid out for them. Clear instructions tell how to plant the vines, how to prune them, what a trellis looks like, and even harvest details. That's just to start. Now the book goes into the winemaking process, and it shines here as well. The conversational tone makes it easy to follow discussions of pH and brix and pomace. The book offers various normal situations winemakers find themselves in, and solutions to fix them. There is even information on barrel usage and aging techniques. The back appendix section offers places to buy wine supplies, wine societies, common vine pests and treatment, and much more. In all, this is a fantastic resource for the home vine grower and winemaker. Grab a copy if you're either one!

I found that Jeff Cox's book to be an excellent "short" guide for growing grapes and making wine. The book is targeted towards the backyard gardener and hobbyist. His examples of trellis construction is excellent with its illustrations of construction techniques. The section on disease and pest would have benefited by including color photos. I would recommend that this book for anyone that is interested in starting a small (less than 200 vines) vineyard.

This is an excellent introduction to the topics of growing grapes or winemaker hobbyist. Cox does an admirable job of providing enough information and tips for the backyard grapegrower or basement/garage winemaker. Other books may go into more detail but this is a comprehensive overview that encompasses each aspect of growing and winemaking. As a wine enthusiast, I have given thought (more than once) to learning more about the complete wine-making process. Reading this book has given me just enough confidence to try this as a backyard/basement hobbyist. It's not that I believe I can grow and make world-class wine -- rather, I expect to be able to appreciate the effort that goes into making a world-class wine. And, with any luck, I'll be able to make something worth drinking. The sections of the book on choosing grapes appropriate to your region, growing and training tips, fermentation, aging, bottling are all clearly written. The supply sources listed in the back are comprehensive enough to be able to find the basics. All in all, a very solid effort.

Cox's "From Vines to Wines" is probably one of the best introductions to backyard grape growing and basement winemaking available today. From selecting vine stock to harvesting the crop, the first half of the book covers all the bases for grape growing. The second half is dedicated to winemaking, from first establishing what type of wine you want to create to labeling the bottles. This book is definitely oriented towards the hobbyist - readers with designs for a large vineyard (1+ acres) will want to start with this book but move on to more detailed texts. Personally, I found the section on site selection and soil analysis a little thin - fine if you're limited to the space on hand (your backyard), but lacking if you want to buy acreage dedicated to a vineyard. No data was provided on small scale commercial operations or basic vineyard economics. Cox's winemaking chapters are probably the best I've seen. He goes through the whole process and highlights potential trouble areas. Overall, a very good book for the hobbyist.

I like this book, and had owned a prior edition. I bought this edition because of new sections. WATCH OUT -- the copy that I bought says on the cover (and on the title page) that it is the 5th edition, yet it is missing all of the supposed "new sections" that are purported to be in the 5th edition. The back cover says "The fifth edition includes profiles of successful home winemakers, as well as sections on ice wines, port-style wines, late-harvest or dessert wines, cold-hardy grapes for northern states, and sparkling wines." Only one of these sections is present in the book (a section on sparkling wines) -- all of the rest are missing. I am disappointed, and will likely return the book. It is possible (likely) that this is a case of a manufacturing error by the publisher... putting the new cover on an older printing of the interior. (Since the 5th edition is said to have come out in March 2015, and I purchased this in May 2015). I am returning the book.

Download to continue reading...

From Vines to Wines, 5th Edition: The Complete Guide to Growing Grapes and Making Your Own Wine
Wine From Vines to Wines: The Complete Guide to Growing Grapes and Making Your Own Wine
The Finest Wines of Tuscany and Central Italy: A Regional and Village Guide to the Best Wines and Their Producers (The World's Finest Wines)
Champagne & Sparkling Wines: A Complete Guide to Sparkling Wines from Around the World (Mitchell Beazley Wine Made Easy)
When Wine Tastes Best 2016: A Biodynamic Calendar for Wine Drinkers (When Wine Tastes Best: A Biodynamic Calendar for Wine Drinkers)
Grape Growing: A Beginner's Guide to Discovering the Fundamentals of Growing Grapes
Teeny-Tiny Wine Guide: A Must for Beginners, Wine Experts and Wine Snobs

Alike (Refrigerator Magnet Books) Wine Making 101: The Ultimate Guide to Making Delicious Wine at Home Rich Dad Advisor's Series: Own Your Own Corporation: Why the Rich Own Their Own Companies and Everyone Else Works for Them (Rich Dad's Advisors) PAIRED - Champagne & Sparkling Wines. The food and wine matching recipe book for everyone. Wine Bar Food: Mediterranean Flavors to Crave with Wines to Match The Wines of Germany (Classic Wine Library) Growing Marijuana: Box Set: Growing Marijuana for Beginners & Advanced Marijuana Growing Techniques Food Truck Business: How to Start Your Own Food Truck While Growing & Succeeding as Your Own Boss The Complete Guide to Wine Tasting and Wine Cellars Tangled Vines: Greed, Murder, Obsession, and an Arsonist in the Vineyards of California 101 Recipes for Making Wild Wines at Home: A Step-by-Step Guide to Using Herbs, Fruits, and Flowers (Back to Basics Cooking) Florabunda Basics: Super Simple Line Art Color, Craft & Draw: Blooms, Buds, Vines & More 2015 Flowering Vines Weekly Planner (16-Month Engagement Calendar, Diary) Black & Decker The Complete Guide to Decks, Updated 5th Edition: Plan & Build Your Dream Deck Includes Complete Deck Plans (Black & Decker Complete Guide)

Dmca